A REPUBLICAN CONFERENCE

A Caucus of Eastern Republicans Decides Against the Depew Candidacy,

And It Is Still Uncertain Who Will Receive the Support of the New York Delegation-Mr. Depew on the St. Louis Convention.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. NEW YORK, June 5. - The reported conference of certain Blaine men, which was said to be called for New York on Saturday last, but of which no traces could be found at the time, really took place here on Friday night, and the particulars have just come out. It was held at Whitelaw Reid's quiet mansion, on Madison evenue, and so escaped the observation of the resporters of the New York press. The reported parsicipants in it were Senator Hiscock, Chauncey M. Depew, ex-Senator D. C. Platt, Congressman William Walter Phelps, of New Jersey; Senator Frye, of Maine, and some others besides the host. Its real object was the desire of Messrs. Platt and Hiscock to find out whether Chauncey M. Depew would be a candidate for President in the face of their opposition; in other words, they wanted him to kretire. Messra Platt, Hiscock and Phelps were all, it is said, outspoken in saying that they did not believe, from all they could learn t Washington, that Mr. Depew could be elected. They represented the entire Northwest as an a condition to revolt against a railroad man. Mr. Depew surprised the group by quietly saying that he was ready to announce, what was whelly true, that he was not a candidate for the nomination, never had been, had no desire for it, and beyond decent respect for those friends who regarded him favorably, would not permit the use of his name. Phelps and Hiscock, who expected opsposition, were puzzled over this, but went on to present General Alger, of Michigan, as an available candidate, mention being also made of General Harrison, of Indiana, and Senator Allicon, of lows. All these gentlemen's names were received with favor, but the vice-presiden-Acial nomination was immediately broached provoked a wide discussion and debate. Messrs. Platt, Hiscock and Depew thought the convention, in the event of the nomination of a Western man for President, would demand a New York candidate for second place. Mr. Reid, who had just seen his friend Mr. Depew calmly debated out of the field, was Chauncey M. Depew was talking, to-day, about the St. Louis convention. "So the old red bandanna of Ohio is to wave again, is it?" he asked, and then continued. "Well, isn't it a most remarkable exhibition of one-man power that is transpiring in the Democratic party today! Here is the occupant of the White House, Grover Cleveland, who, five years ago, was literally unknown, telling the great Democratic party, which composes half the voters of the country, what it shall do and what it shall not do, and being obeyed as the school-boy minds the wielder of the birch rod? There never has been cuch a spectacle since Liberty Bell was rung. Cleveland first tells the party that it shall assemble by its representatives at St. Louis, on June 5, and he is obeyed; he tells them that his further instructions will be forthcoming in due time. Presently he says to them: 'I am the onitime. Presently he says to them: 'I am the onity man you can elect; now get down on your knees and swear it and prepare to nominate me,' and they all answer, 'So mote it be.' He writes out a platform and tells them to have it put in type-written copy, so that no mistake will be made in passing it as he wants it, and his instructions are followed. They get all ready to nominate Governor Gray, of Indiana, and he sends word and tells them that it must be Thurman, and they prepare to obey. The man who will nominate him in the convention, the man who will second the nomination, the man who will present the resolutions, three-fourths of the delegates, and nine-tenths of the party wish it was somebody else besides Cleveland, and yet he rules them as with a rod of iron, and they yell 'Long live Grover,' while under breath they whisper the addition, 'The first, and, we hope, the last.' Oh, it is a great spectacle!"

not disposed to let his other particular friend,

Mr. Phelps, be set aside without a strong fight.

When Platt and Hiscock advocated a ticket composed of Alger and Morton, he declared the thing impossible, and opposed it strenuously.

The conference came to no definite conclusion, except an agreement to disagree; but it gave the New York leaders an opportunity to know among Pthemselves how widely they differ.

When Mr. Depew was asked about the report that he intended to write a letter either withdrawing his name or putting himself in the hands of his friends, he said: 'No, I am not going to write a letter of any kind in reference to the presidential question. The writing of a letter premises two things: First, that somebody had demanded an answer by letter, and second, that somebody wants to write a letter. Neither of these conditions is fulfilled in my case. With Mr. Blaine it was different. The party had demanded of him that he should let it know what he wanted. For that reason he wrote his Florence letter to the party. The correspondence was continued by the election of delegates to Chicago sufficient in number to have nominated Mr. Blaine, and he was therefore required to write his Paris letter. Now, in my case, there is nothing of all this. I am not called upon to write a letter, and no letter will Ex-Senator T. C. Platt got back from Washington to-day, and the Alger boomers here have since been in high feather; but there seems to since been in high feather; but there seems to be no solid ground for believing that Mr. Platt has committed himself anywhere. On the contrary, it seems, from reports from Washington, that he is balancing in his mind the relative strength of Harrison, Allison and Alger. He has found Senator Palmer and Congressman Burrows, of Michigan, opposed to Alger. The latter is reported as saying that Harrison and Phelps is the ticket that Platt will favor.

Eastern Delegates Are Not Pledged. CHICAGO, June 5 .- J. S. Clarkson, president of the national Republican sub-committee, was at the Grand Pacific this morning. He has just returned from an eastern trip. "Are any of the Eastern delegates to the Re-publican convention pledged!" he was asked this

"No, they are not pledged. These people who say the Eastern delegates will be solid for this man and solid for that man, don't know what they are talking about. Of course, they have preferences, like all other Republicans, but they do not know to-day what they will do in the convention. That is particularly true of the delegates from Connecticut will support Hawley for President, those from New York. The delegates from Connecticut will support Hawley for President, those from New Jersey will support Cox, most of those in Pennsylvania are for Sherman, and so on. As a matter of fact, seven-eighths of the Eastern delegates were for Blaine under all circumstances, but now that he is out, they are in cumstances, but now that he is out, they are in

"You think, then, that Mr. Blaine is really "I have nothing to go by but his letter—that seems to me plain enough."

"What, in a word, is the present outlook?" "If the delegates in any way yet believe that Mr. Blaine will accept a nomination, he will surely be nominated by an overwhelmingly large majority. In any other case, no one knows what the result will be. On the whole, I think Allison's chances are good."

Escape of a Leper.

OTTAWA, June 5.—At the present moment there are seventeen leprous patients coufined in the Lazaretto at Traedie, New Brunswick— eight males and nine females. During the past year three deaths occurred from this disease while one escaped to the United States where probably the seed of the disease may be sown to raise up a colony of these unfortunate beings. During the past year the physician in charge reports to the government that hearing of two suspected cases at Caraquet he visited the loeslity and discovered that two young persons, who had endeavored to conceal the fact, were afflicted with leprosy in its earlier stages, and their removal to the Lazaretto was ordered immediately. All known cases in the province are now within the walls of the Lazaretto. The authorities appear to be badly cut up over the escape of one of the patients to the United States, but endeavor to clear themselves of the responsibility on the ground that every precau-

Frightful Railway Accident in Mexico. CITY OF MEXICO, June 5 .- A railway accident occurred yesterday evening just outside of Tampico in which many lives were lost. A construction train was derailed near a bridge by a CHILDREN with weak eyes, sore ears, or any form of scrofula, cured by Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

The train crashed through the bridge and went down an embankment. The dead and injured were brought in to-day. So far as known eighteen were killed and forty-one injured.

THE FIFTIETH CONGRESS.

The Senate Transacts Routine Business wit Only Twenty-Six Members. WASHINGTON, June 5 .- After routine busi ness the Senate proceeded to consideration of the diplomatic and consular appropriations bill

Among the amendments reported by the committee on appropriations and agreed to by the Senate were the following:

Transferring to the grade of envoys extraordi-Transferring to the grade of envoys extraordinary and ministers plenipotentiary, the ministers resident in Belgium, the Netherlands, Sweden and Norway, and Venezuela, without change of salary (27.500), inserting an item, "minister resident and consul-general in Corea, $7,500;" transferring to the grade of minister resident and consul-general the charge d'affaires to Paraguay and Uruguay, without change of salary, $5,000; inserting a provision requiring all consulates and commercial agencies where the fees collected or the compensation allowed for the fiscal year 1888 exceeds $1,000 to be estimated for specifically under classified consulates.

On motion of Mr. Sherman, an item of $25,000 was inserted for the salaries and expenses of a was inserted for the salaries and expenses of a scientific commission of three persons-an officer of the army or navy, a geologist and miner-ologist and a naturalist—to visit and report upon the commercial resources of the upper Congo basin; the salaries, not exceeding $6,000, to be fixed by the President, and the commission to expire June 30, 1889. An amendment, which was offered by Mr. Call, to increase the salary of the minister resident and consul-general to Para-guay and Uruguay from $5,000 to $7,500, was debated at much length. Finally the amend-ment was excluded on a point of order, and Mr. Call appealed from that decision. As there was evidently no quorum present, only twenty-six members voting, the bill went over till to-morrow without further action, and the Senate, at 3:50, adjourned.

Proceedings of the House.

WASHINGTON, June 5 .- After routine business, the House went into committee of the whole on the tariff-bill, debate on the pending clause ("wood manufactured not specially enumerated or provided for") being limited to thirty minutes. As Mr. Springer took the chair, a reporter in the gallery waved a large red handkerchief. Instantly there was an out-burst of applause on the Democratic side, while the chairman pounded the desk.

Mr. Grosvenor called his attention to the red handkerchief which, he said, had been mistaken by Democrate as a bandana, from Ohio, while, in fact, it was a telegram from Oregon

This sally, and Mr. Packer's statement that it would be in better taste to use the handkerchief for the purpose originally intended, turned the laughter on the other side. Finally the Chair, by a free use of the gavel, and by reminding members that the body was not a political convention, secured order, and Mr. Parker, of New York, addressed the House in opposition to the lumber clauses of the tariff bill. He was followed in opposition by Mr. Reed, of Maine, while the bill was defended by Mr. Cox, of New York, and Mr. Bynum, of Indiana.

Upon expiration of the debate, Mr. Bayne's motion to strike out the paragraph "sawed boards, planks, deals and all other articles of sawed timber," was considered. would be in better taste to use the handkerchief sawed timber," was considered.

Messrs. Moffitt, of New York; Howard, of Indiana, and Keiley, of Pennsylvania, renewed the attack on the lumber schedules. Mr. Mills, of Texas, called attention to the fact that Canada imposed a tariff on sawed lumber, and asked why it was, if a tariff meant high wages, that it did not bring high wages in Canada as well as here. Mr. Hermann, of Oregon, presented to the Democracy the compliments of Oregon and a message from her people saying that Oregon had voted for protection by 3,000 majority. [Applause.]

Mr. Moffitt moved to strike out the paragraph, and the motion was rejected.

Mr. Sowden, of Pennsylvania, and Mr. Tarsney, of Michigan, voted with the Republicans in favor of the motion, and Mr. Fuller, of Iowa, voted with the Democrate against it. So the clerk turned over the first page of the bill and read the next clause of the free list:
"Hubs for wheels, posts, last blocks, wagon blocks, oar blocks, heading blocks, and all like blocks or sticks, rough, hewn or sawn," which Mr. Bayne moved to strike out. He said that he had heard that the St. Louis platform would straddle the tariff. He predicted that although the Democratic banner would read Cleveland and the red bandana [tremendous applause on the Democratic side] the Republicans, in No-vember, standing on a protection platform, Mr. Cox had read a bulletin from the convention to the effect that Cleveland's name was received with a storm of applause, whereupon the Democratic members again broke out in tumultuous applause.

Mr. Weber, of New York, as a commentary upon this bulletin, read from a Buffalo paper a statement that a few days ago eighty-eight men started from that city for the convention in Cleveland's interest, where, in 1884, over 2,000 men went to Chicago on the same errand. After further debate the motion to strike out was rejected by a party vote.

"Staves of wood" was next considered. After a long discussion, Mr. Buchanan, of New Jersey, offered an amendment adding the words, "in the rough, straight, and not shaved," which was rejected.

Mr. Bayne, of Pennsylvania, ironically remarked that the Democrats did not apper to gather much satisfaction from a perusal of the convention bulletins, and he therefore read a number of telegrams showing Republican gains in Oregon, to the delectation of the Republicans. Mr. Lawler, of Illinois, replied by reading a clipping from an Oregon newspaper denouncin g high tariff as humbuggery.

An amendment to strike out the paragraph lost, and the committee ros The Speaker pro tem. laid before the House a message from the President, returning, without his approval, bills for the erection of a public building at Bar Harbor, Me., and for the purchase of additional ground for the building at Council Bluffs. The announcement of the veto of the first-named bill was received with laughter by the Republicans.

The conferees on the bill relating to postal crimes presented their report, and the Senate amendments were agreed to. The House then, at 5 o'clock, adjourned.

R. posts at Logansport, Albany, Ossian, Greentown and other places in Indiana, in favor of the Steele bill to establish a national soldiers' home at Marion, Grant county. No action has yet been taken on the bill by the Senate committee on military affairs, although it went to the Senate from the House two or three weeks ago. The prospects, however, are that it will receive favorable consideration.

General Notes. Special to the Indianapolis Journal

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Hon, W. H. Calkins and Oliver T. Morton, of Indianapolis, were in the city to-day.

This evening's Star says: "This morning information was received here that Charles Hartell, a well-known citizen of East Washington, who lived at 814 C street southeast, had been killed in Indianapolis, last night, but no particulars were received. Mr. Hartell was a German by birth, and served in the army in the old country as well as in the United States during the last war. Recently he has been employed as a carpenter. He leaves a widow and ployed as a carpenter. He leaves a widow and five or six children, mostly grown. He served in Company D, Second Maryland Regiment, during the war. He was a member of the Union Soldiers' Alliance, Union Veteran Corps, and Lincoln Post, No. 3, G. A. R. He received an appointment to superintend the new government building last week, received his instructions on Saturday, and left that afternnon for Indiana.'

GENERAL SHERIDAN.

He Passes a Favorable Day, Resting Quietly and Apparently Gaining in Strength. WASHINGTON, June 5, 8 P. M. -Since the last bulletin General Sheridan's pulse has averaged 105 to the minute and its quality is good. The breathing is generally regular and deeper, the cough is not troublesome and there is no difficulty in expectorating. The voice is stronger, the appearance more natural, the mind unclouded. There has been no recurrence of the hemorrhage. For the time being there is a manifest improvement in the General's condition.

R. M. O'REILLY, C. BYRNE, W. MATTHEWS, H. C. YARROW. This has been a favorable day for General Sheridan. He has rested quietly, and has apparently gained a little in strength. The family feel quite cheerful to-night. Dr. O'Rilley went home to secure some sleep after the 8-o'clock bulletin was issued, stating that he did not think he would be needed immediately. At no time has the General himself given up hope of recovery, and to-day his mind has been clear, and he has taken considerable interest in things generally. He insisted upon knowing the news from the St. Louis convention, and dispatches from there were read to him from time to time. While there has certainly been an improvement in his condition today, it must be borne in mind that this is largely comparative and does not mean that he is better than before yesterday's attack. Each attack leaves the General somewhat weaker, and it is this fact which causes such grave apprehensions among his friends. The General's face, which was very full, is somewhat thinner, and he has also fallen off about the body. No one is allowed to see him except the family and the physicians.

The following bulletin was issued at 12 tonight by Gen. Sheridan's physicians:

"Gen. Sheridan's condition has not changed materially since the last report. His respiration continues regular and his pulse is good in quality, ranging from 105 to 108 beats to the minute. His sleep during the entire evening has been restful, and he has only awakened at intervals when required to take his nourish-

Interview with Dr. Pepper.

PHILADELPHIA, June 5 .- Dr. William Pepper returned from Washington this morning, where he had been in consultation with General Sheridan's physicians. To a reporter of the Associated Press, he said this afternoon: "I spent last night at General Sheridan's, in consultation with his attending physicians. The bulletin issued this morning explains clearly the cause of the alarming condition which developed yesterday afternoon. The hemorrhage was considerable and the shock caused by it very profound. I am sure that death would have resulted had it not been for the vigorous measures instantly adopted by his physicians, who are in constant attendance upon him. It is not at all rare for such hemorrhages to occur when there is organic valvular disease of the heart, with failure of the cardiac power, so that the venous system becomes intensely congested. The existence of organic heart disease has been known for some time to General Sheridan and to Dr. O'Reilly, his own physician. The development of the alarming symptoms of heart failure dates back to the exhaustion connected with the recent trip West. It is impossible to assert that there may not be a recurrence of this hemorthere may not be a recurrence of this hemorrhage, and such an event, on the return of severe heart failure, would place his life in urgent danger. On the other hand, there are shown in the bulletin of this morning several favorable features about the present condition of the case.
General Sheridan's courage is undiminished and his confidence in his attending physicians and the willingness with which he undergoes all necessary treatment are so resolute that it materially assists the devoted efforts which are being made to bring the disease under control." ing made to bring the disease under control."

It is charged that on the night of the 25th of April, during the Grand Army banquet here, Warren "held up" and relieved an elderly gentleman, John Ramsey, of Gwynneville, of $50 in money. The Cow Question at Wabash. Special to the Indianapolis Journal

WABASH, June 5.-The town cow question. which has been agitating the people of this city all spring, was settled, to-day, at an election called for the purpose. Indiana Notes. The sum of $306 has been sent to increase the Parnell fund from Crawfordsville.

Mrs. Emma Garrett Willson, who has been connected with the Central Indiana Normal School, at Ladogs, will be in charge the coming year. All except one of the old faculty remain. Wm. H. Steward, whose family resides at Seymour, was instantly killed at Jeffersonville, yesterday morning, where he was working in the capacity of bridge carpenter. He alighted from a train, and stepping on a side-track was struck by another train which was passing.

On Monday afternoon, Albert Wren of New Ross, went into the drug store owned by Mr. Burroughs, and going behind the prescription case, picked up a small bottle, asked what was in it. The druggist replied, "aconite." Wren then drank about three ounces, told what he had done, and ran out to a doctor's office. Nothing could be done to save his life, and he died in about three hours. He was a painter and leaves a wife and two children. Before he died he said that he took the drug with the intention of committing suicide.

A Fair Trial

Of Hood's Sarsaparilla for scrofula, salt rheum or any affection caused by impure blood, is sufficient to convince anyone of the superior and peculiar curative powers of this medicine. The following statement is right to the point:

"My daughter Mary was afflicted with scrofulous sore neck from the time she was 22 months old till she became 6 years of age. Lumps formed in her neck, causing great annoyance, and two of them, after growing to the size of a pigeon's egg, broke and discharged. One became a running sore for more than three years. We thought we would give Hood's Sarsaparilla a thorough trial. We began with it in January, and in a few months, after she had taken five three months, when, as a new lump was beginning to form, we again gave her Hood's Sarsaparilla. After she had taken less than two bottles the lump and all indications of scrofula had entirely disappeared, and now she seems to be a healthy child." J. S. CARLILE Nauright, N. J.

Why not? This is positively the greatest Suit Sale ever attempted in Indiana. From the fact that our stores have been crowded with customers since the inauguration of this sale goes to show that the PEOPLE OF INDIANA are not slow to realize a bargain when they see it, and when the opportunity is at hand to purchase regular $15 and $18 Suits at

They are not going to let it slip. Remember, only one Suit sold to any one person and None to dealers.

The knife run through all departments. BOYS' SUITS, ages 13 to 18, made of finest materials, latest styles, well worth $10, $12 and $15, go this week for

$7.88

KNEE PANTS SUITS, that cannot be matched anywhere in the State under $5 to $6, go this week for

$3.88

PERCALE SHIRTS HAT DEPARTMENT

That cannot be bought by other dealers at wholesale at any such price. Latest styles in Neckwear, Hosiery, etc., at prices that tell where you can | That cannot be bought elsewhere under

Will verify the assertion that we sell more Hats than any three hat stores in the State combined. This week our leader is forty cases of Men's and Boys' Mackinaw Hats at
